IN MEMORIAM

In loving but sad remembrance of our dear father, Lewis McCormick, and mother, Queen Victoria McCormick, who departed this life; our father 6 years ago June 7, and our mother 3 years and six months ago, June 7.

June is the month of roses
Of memories sweet and blest,
We think of those we've loved and lost
Who have gone to their rest.

Daddy left us 6 years ago,
To join that heavenly throng;
And mother has gone to be with him
And left us here alone.

It is lonesome here without them
And sad and weary the way,
Life has not been the same to us,
Since they were called away.

If we had all the world to give,
We'd give it yes, and more
To hear their voice and see their smile,
As we greet them at the door.

But some day, some time, our eyes shall see
Their face we loved so well,
Some day we'll clasp their loving hands,
And never say farewell.

—Sadly missed by — Children.

IN MEMORY

GOWIN: In loving remembrance of our feather, Henry Harrison Gowin, who departed this life eight years ago, June 11, 1948.

Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thoughts to reach,
Memory of you, father so dear,
Will linger with us, year after year.

Sleep in peace and forever rest,
For we know that you are blessed;
Because we know where you are,
You far beyond that shining star.
—Loved and missed by
His Children.

Periods of gloom are always with us to make you fear that the end of all is its final hour. The origin of the following words of comfort is due to me:

There's one thing that I have to say

I have had a good long wait.

A psalm of old went forth, "Why not whither" he went. I think it was a good idea. There are things it does not pay to have not planned. I like to study a good road map as I go along, to know where I am, and a rough idea where I might end up, but outside of that, I don't like a rigid route. Modern life keeps us in a rut. The mule that walked round and round with the pole at the sorghum mill, often was a blind mule. I don't any use to see, going like that in the same old path. I prefer a drill of the open road, and horizons, with the blue sky, and signs of growing things, new and an open schedule, with a belief that come night, we will find a fine place to roost. A date for a vacation is to keep until you have spent a bit and laid by money you had for the trip, and then turn and head home—by another

Mr. and Mrs. Miller and family plan to move to Norfolk at once. They came here June 18, 1956, and have been very active in civic and church life of the community.

926 Polio Shots Given in County During May

An increase in the supply of Salk polio vaccine allocated to Virginia now makes children one through nineteen years and pregnant women eligible for dosages, Dr. H. E. Jenkins, Health Director, said today.

The doses are now available for the new age group through family physicians, Dr. Jenkins said. The present supply thus provides eligibility for children one through nineteen years of age and pregnant women.

In announcing the arrival of additional supplies, Dr. Jenkins urged the use and the cooperation of parents in making the vaccine effective in prevention and elimination of polio.

Asserting that the Salk vaccine can cut paralytic polio in half this summer, Basil O'Conner, NFIP President, said that distribution and use of the vaccine have become a logistic rather than a scientific problem.

To achieve the maximum possible cut in paralytic polio this summer, depends on the coordinated effort of the public, public health services, doctors, and vaccine manufacturers, Mr. O'Conner said. He estimated that with this cooperation during the remaining months of 1956, paralytic polio can be reduced to a negligible amount in 1957, and a 50% cut is possible in 1956.

In brief, the symptoms of poliomyelitis are as follows:

A child coming down with polio may complain of a headache, become listless or restless, feverish, irritable, and may show signs of a cold. He doesn't want to be touched. He is likely to vomit and may complain of pain in the back, or behind the neck. Many of the symptoms are not unlike those associated with more common upsets to which children are subject. Call your physician without delay if a child shows signs of illness. Until he comes, put the child to bed in a room by himself and keep him quiet.

A total of 926 children were giv-

John William Scott IV Killed in Accident

John William Scott, IV, thirty years of age, lost his life due to an accident, Friday, June 8 at about 2:30 P. M. in Princess Anne County, when his truck, which he was driving, got out of control, rounding a curve as he approached a bridge. He was an electrical contractor, and had a lot of equipment in the truck, which struck a ditch and overturned, throwing him partly out of the truck and crushing beneath it.

He was a resident of Portsmouth, Virginia, but a native of Appomattox, Virginia, where his family has long been associated in the religious, civic, business and social life of this section of the state.

He is survived by his mother, Eleanor Abbitt Scott, of Portsmouth, Va., formerly of Appomattox, Va.; his father John McCartney Scott, of Baltimore, Md., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John William Scott of New York City, N. Y., who in 1910, bought an old home here, where they spent their summers. Mr. Scott named the home, "Malin Hill," in honor of his home town of Malin Co. Donegal, Ireland, which he left in 1883. This old home, still in possession of the Scott family, overlooks the village of Old Appomattox, and because of its beauty and location has long been admired by the many visitors to the historic village.

Appomattox County had its first traffic deaths of the year last Thursday when a county woman and her daughter were killed instantly when thrown from a truck in which they were riding on a gravel road on State Road 665, about 1½ miles from their home, Route 2, Gladstone.

The dead were Mrs. Ida Grow Moore, 59, and her daughter, Mrs. Betty Sue Tweedy, 40.

According to investigating officers, the two women were thrown from their vehicle as it left the road and ran along a small ditch. The tragedy occurred at 2:10 P. M., about seven miles northwest of Oakville.

Mrs. Christine Herndon Moore, 20, of Route 2, Concordt was listed as the driver of the vehicle. She was uninjured. She is Mrs. Moore's daughter-in-law.

A Fourth passenger, Mrs. Tweedy's young daughter, Kathy Diane, was thrown from the vehicle and was not critically injured The medical examiner listed a broken neck as the cause of Mrs. Moore's death and Mrs. Tweedy's to be a fractured skull and internal injuries.

State troopers said the accident's cause was undetermined. The truck rounded a slight curve on a grade and was headed north when it ran off the left side of the road and along a small ditch, scraping the bank for about 90 feet. It came to rest after hitting the bank of an adjoining ditch. The 1950 model truck was damaged slightly.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Tweedy were members of Trinity Methodist Church, where double funeral services were conducted Saturday at 3 P. M. Burials were made in the Rebecca Family Cemetery, in this county.

Mrs. Ida Grow Moore, widow of Marvin Watts Moore, was the daughter of the late John F. and Nannie Crews Grow. She is survived by three sons, John P. Moore, of Concord; Marvin W. Moore, Jr., Route 2, Gladstone and Virgil A. Moore, Route 2, Concord; two daughters, Mrs. H. E. Tuck, of Lynchburg and Mrs. Alfred Moore, of Concord; five brothers Virgil and Abner Grow, both of Lynchburg; and John Grow, of Roanoke; Sidney O. Mrs. Betty Sue Tweedy was born in Appomattox County February 10, 1916. She is survived by her daughter, a son, Charles Allen Tweedy, and three brothers and two sisters, listed above.

Funeral services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Aaron D. Smith.

Teachers Have Busy Summer Schedule of Activities Lined Up

— The idea that teachers have a summer-long vacation is not al all true — especially for vocational teachers. The county's home economics and agriculture teachers have already begun their summer duties.

One of their first responsibilities is making preparation for the joint home economics - vocational agriculture school - community cannery program. The Appomattox and the Pamplin school canneries open on July 2. Miss Laura Motley, home economics instructor, and H. B. Pack, R. N. Ashworth, and Lewis Motley agriculture instructors, are now lining up cannery instructors for the season, securing cans, and supplies, repairing equipment and doing the many behind-the-scenes tasks for a successful food conservation program.

Other summer work on the schedules is visiting FHA and FFA members and advising with them on their home projects. Another item on the summer agenda is the vocational conference which will be held this year at V. P. I., in Blacksburg, during the month of August. The last week in June will find many vo-ag instructors in Blacksburg with a group of FFA boys for the State FFA Convention. This group will probably include R. N. Ashworth, and Lewis Motley, from Appomattox. Motley will also be in Blacksburg for a six-weeks term of summer school, beginning June 13.
